

Rainforest Tanjung Candle

The Tanjung scented candle lies in an opaline glass hand-blown by our glass craftsmen. Multiple colors are sprinkled throughout the glass, recalling the tones of the mysterious landscapes of Indonesia. Indonesia is home to many large tropical forests where animal and plant biodiversity lies protected. The Tanjung National Park is located in the southwest of the island of Borneo and covers 355,000 hectares. Orangutans live in the wild and make up the largest reserve of this species in the world. These mysterious jungles house unique species and extraordinary birds, such as the Bird of Paradise found in Papua. We pay homage to the Tanjung Park, a journey to the kingdom of Mowgli where primates are kings.

Its woody fragrance with notes of cedar and galbanum will transport you to the freshness of the tropical forest, populated by extraordinary fauna.

Product Description

Inspired by Borneo's Tanjung National Park, Baobab Collection's Rainforest Tanjung Candle combines notes of cedar, galbanum, and guaiac wood to create a fragrance that's warm, fresh, and alluring. The handblown glass vessel that houses the luxury candle is just as captivating, embedded with colors that, like the scent, evoke Indonesia.
